Forward

Our final year---expectancy of things to come, reluctance to give up old traditions confused freshmen, excited but a little frightened. Busy sophomores caught up in the swing of school... Juniors forever working, proud of their new class rings... and Seniors, hopeful yet apprehensive of things to come... These are all part of the spirit of MHS--the spirit of '68.

Viking Dedicates Final Effort To Mr. Martin

Years ago, a young man, newly graduated from Ball State University, came to Monroeville as a science teacher. Within a few years the former all-state guard in football became principal and has held that position for the past 32 years. During those years, he demonstrated administration skill and personal enthusiasm that has been such a large factor in the closeness and understanding between everyone, faculty and students alike. It would be unfair, however, to speak of him only as a principal.

For many years he was the freshman biology teacher and for several years, head coach of the basketball team. These responsibilities were beyond the duties as principal, but he was always willing to do everything in his power for the betterment of the school. For the past several years, he has planned a unique style of graduation exercise in which the Seniors themselves present the program. This involved a lot of work, but thanks to his guidance and encouragement, each commencement was a success.

As we leave M. H. S., we remember our principal for many different qualities. His proper judgment, authority, intelligence, enthusiasm, and perhaps most importantly, his sincere interest in the welfare of each student and alumnus of Monroeville High School, has benefited all of us. Thus, it is only fitting that we respectfully dedicate this final edition of the Viking to Mr. George G. Martin.

Mr. Martin prepares one of the many state reports that come to his office each year.

Out of a busy schedule Mr. Martin finds time to address the student body.

Mr. Martin takes a well deserved rest after a long day.

Mr. Martin is always found in the cafeteria at noon as he prepares to meet a hectic afternoon.

A principals duties include greeting and cordially listening to many salesmen.

Student Life

The Class rings, caps and gowns ordered, announcements chosen.

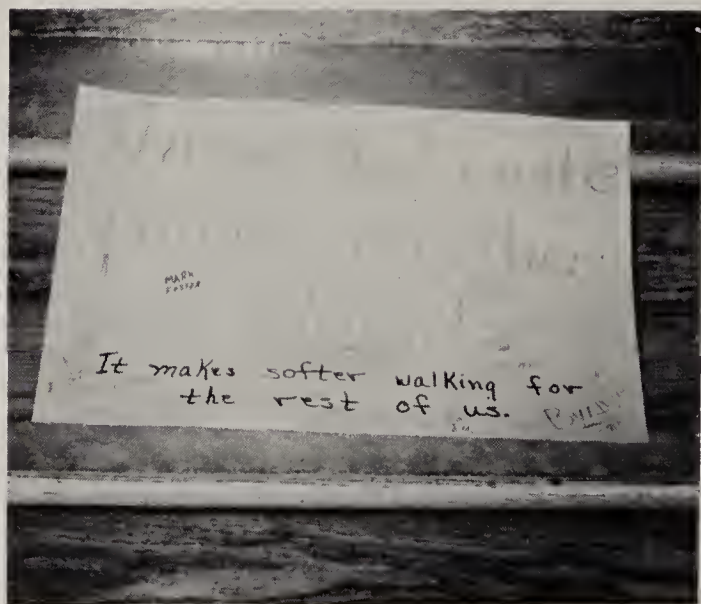

Frustration as a locker opened, spilling its contents into the hallway. A lost gym shoe, a new exercise, a stiff muscle... Studios silence broken by a paper plane thrown across study hall. Whispered messages, a Coke at the candy store, The Sound of Music at the big city. Logarithms, quadratic equations, an English test completed and passed.

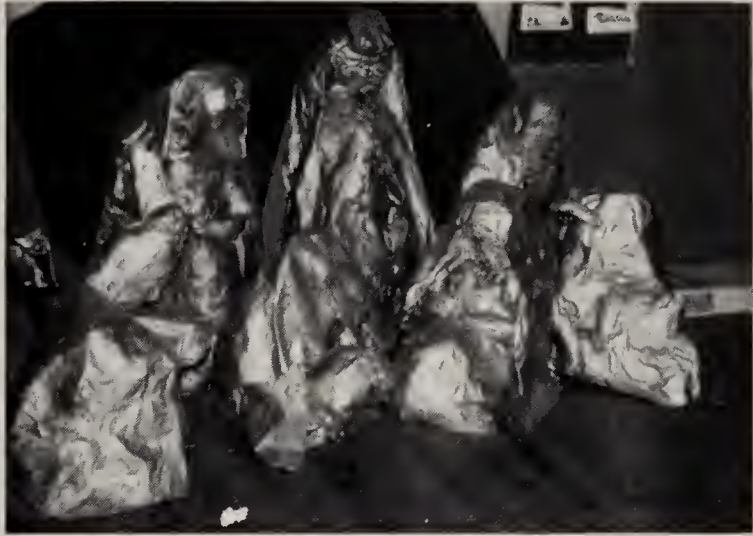

The candy store stocked and mopped, cider to sell... Play practice and dives through a window. A ladder, a spotlight captured the enthusiasm of the players. A coat check, helping a teacher, emphasis on scholastic achievement, and broken pinatas and shouts of Ole.

The county tournament came. Expectant enthusiasm, tearful losses... The cry of victory, shakers thrown into the air. Dusty seats and a baseball game. A volleyball tourney and a trophy.

Solemn and thoughtful are the Seniors. A quiet prayer, a majestic speech, and a handshake... The end of the testing, screaming frustration, and ecstasy... Remembered always as the spirit of Kinship.

The Curtain Parts On THE ADVENTURES OF TOM SAWYER

Gene practices his dignified "Judge Thatcher" look.

Deserving seniors take curtain call.

Sweaty palms and fast beating hearts characterized the players of the Senior class on the opening night of their production of THE ADVENTURES OF TOM SAWYER. The magic of opening night was preceded by many weeks of hard work, painting sets and learning make-up techniques. Tom Gibson became expert at falling through a window while others learned to project their voices. Programs were printed, tickets were sold, a few humorous lines were inserted in Saturday's performance, making the experience delightful.

Tom comforts Becky as she fears death.

Juniors Presented Poignant Drama,

OUR TOWN

The first theatrical experience of the Junior class proved to be a rewarding one as the class presented OUR TOWN by Thornton Wilder.

Tom Stephenson as the stage manager narrated the drama of every day life in a small town. Susan Burnett, as a sensitive Emily, laughed, cried and lived, coming back after death to realize how little life was appreciated by the living. Kevin Sipe played the romantic, stuttering, and finally heart-broken George. Other highlights came at the wedding and Emily's death.

Much work was done on lighting, sound effects, scenery, and programs, bringing new experiences to an eager Junior Class and an appreciative audience.

Ming Trees And A Dragon Greeted

Juniors And Seniors In "Oriental Gardens"

Ming trees and a dragon named Boris highlighted the final Junior-Senior prom of Monroeville High School. Held on May 4 at the Decatur Youth Center, the occasion was the largest in the history of MHS, with 154 in attendance. The theme of "Oriental Gardens" was well carried out with a bridge, covered pond, and many flowers of every shade. After the banquet, music for dancing was provided by the Jim Schurr orchestra. Comedienne Alice and Evelyn, and Dan Kunn, folksinger from Indiana University provided additional entertainment during the evening.

Academics

Comforting a frightened first grader, teaching the ABC's, an algebra problem explained... A dance to sponsor, a French dinner to plan. Grading a mile high stack of papers, popping a quiz in literature, attending a teachers meeting... A troubled teenage seeking guidance. A chemistry experiment assembled. The school paper, cleaning up the art room after ceramics, questioning an established principle... A frog dissected and a field trip organized. The headache of a choir concert, attempting to keep order in study hall. Instilling a sense of accomplishment in a student, encouraging the formation of goals, stressing the importance of success... remembered always as the spirit of wisdom.

Primary Teachers Present Basic Skills

MRS. VERONICA BUHR, B. S.
Kindergarten

Mastery of basic skills faces the students in the primary years. The responsibility of vowels, creating attitudes, developing basic skills, forming an excited student from a frightened child was the job facing the primary teachers. Mrs. Buhr began the metamorphosis with finger paints, songs, and the alphabet. Mrs. Fritzinger directed the learning in the fundamental areas of reading and writing. Second graders advanced to complete students as Mrs. Sorgen formed intensely excited realms of oceans, paintings, and books.

Third And Fourth Graders

MRS. HAZEL BEAUCHOT, B. S.
Third Grade

A red pill, a free tube of toothpaste, and an intensive course in oral hygiene faced the third and fourth graders as Mrs. Beauchot and Mrs. Spieth guided learning. Third graders began the difficult task of writing, signaling their entrance into a new world of lines, letters and numerals. Fourth graders pondered the theories of an anomometer and grimaced at new math equations.

Intermediate Grades Stage Moon Shot, Investigate Molds

Mrs. Theresa Martin, B. S. ,
Fifth Grade

Moon trips and molds stimulated the students in the Fifth and Sixth grades to analyze problems on their own. Mrs. Martin inspired enthusiasm with science projects ranging from eyeballs to dissected chickens. The Sixth grade probed the depths of outer space as Miss Allor arranged a simulated Apollo moon shot.

Special Classes Improve Student's Speech And Reading

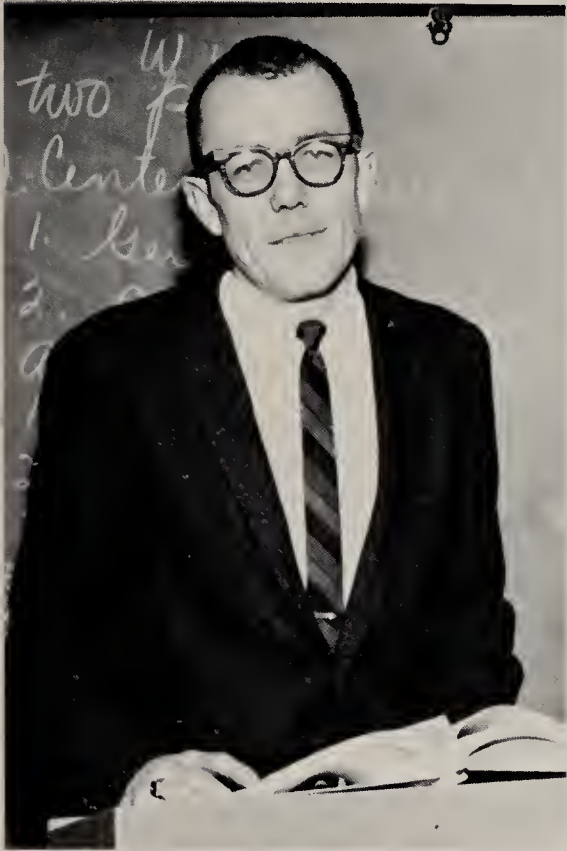

Mr. Evan L. Farmer, B. S. ,
Remedial Reading

Students needing specialized help in the areas of reading and speaking were aided by Miss Novitsky and Mr. Farmer. A reading master and books for all age levels assisted Mr. Farmer's students in conquering their phonetic problems. Miss Novitsky's knowledge of speech problems and patterns enabled young pupils to correct their speech difficulties.

Jr. High students confronted the rigors of changing classes and a departmentalized system. From the gym to the third floor math room Jr. High pupils scurried trying vainly to beat the three minute bell. Bells and long halls were not the only problems encountered, as students worked to adjust to more than one teacher. With all their problems the seventh and eighth graders had a productive year. Under the guidance of their homeroom teachers, Mr. Grabner, Mr. Heimann, Mr. Lehman, the Junior High achieved scholastically and athletically.

Literature And Art Present The World

MRS. WILLODEAN GRACE, A. B. , M. A.
English, Speech

A Shakespearian drama, irregular Spanish verbs, paint brushes, a tense debate...all of these were included in the area of fine arts. Miss Toledo and Miss Wetter introduced students to the complexities of Spanish and French with the aid of filmstrips, songs, and foreign dinners. Under the guidance of Mrs. Overmeyer, those interested in art were given a chance to demonstrate and sharpen their talents through many different kinds of media. Public speaking was emphasized in Mrs. Grace's speech class, as students gained confidence through extemporaneous speaking and reading aloud. Opinions were expressed through debates. The activities of the English department were many and varied, from double negatives to poetry, as class members explored the fascinating world of communication.

As guidance counselor, Mrs. Somers gave invaluable assistance to high school students, whether it involved higher education or the right job.

Music Classes Develop Skill And Appreciation

MR. HAROLD HATCHER, B. M. E.

Beethoven, Bach, Beatles, and the Fifth Dimension echoed from the music department this year. Mr. Mergenthal and Mr. Tussing inspired high school students to enter contests and community endeavors. Mr. Hatcher excited the lower graders as they learned the fundamentals of rhythm and sight reading. On all levels, through flat notes, and forgotten notebooks there emerged an appreciation and an enjoyment of music.

Mr. Rose and Mr. Wiant performed with test tubes and scalpels, opening new doors to would-be Einsteins. Proper care through understanding were the goals of the health and physical fitness programs. Through study of the body, the community with a balance of physical activity formulated awareness in interested students. Mrs. Tyas motivated students with trampoline and volleyball. The year's highlight came when the physical education classes demonstrated for the PTA.

Typewriters, adding machines, government, history books, income tax forms... With these as tools Mr. Rademacher and Mr. Knape implanted within their students the basic elements of good citizenship and practical vocations. They strove to prepare them for the decisions which must be made by offering explanations of our history, governmental structure, monetary system, and social dilemmas.

Culinary And Woodworking Arts Prepare Students For Future

MISS SHARON EITMAN, B. S.
Home Economics, Freshman Sponsor

Burnt pots, splintered wood, ripped seams, and bent nails composed a year of frustration in the world of vocational arts. Miss Eitman labored to impress her students with the importance of good grooming, family relationships, and thrifty purchasing. The homemaking class not only constructed clothing and created culinary delights, but they shared their accomplishments with the faculty and student body. Young chefs delighted the teachers with a Christmas tea, and newly discovered fashion designers presented a style show.

Mr. Snyder guided young architects through a year of blueprints and detailed drawings. In shop young craftsmen fashioned pieces of furniture, and learned the qualities of various woods.

Jammed Fingers And Sloppy Joes Keep Personnel Busy

In constant motion from the moment she entered the school, Mrs. Rider's world revolved around sprained ankles, viruses, and headaches. Eye examinations were needed and health records were in constant need of revision. A sense of medical assistance perforated the halls and lured the ill individual to the clinic's door.

MRS. RIDER, School Nurse

Spoons, forks, milk cartons, empty trays... Just as the teachers nourished the student's mind with facts, our cooks nourished the student's body with good, hot, wholesome food. Through a constantly changing variety of dishes they delivered to the student body the energy needed to learn, and the basic elements for a strong body.

Mrs. Harless, Mrs. Van Buskirk, and Mrs. Jones.

They Did Their Share In Keeping The School Running Smoothly

Brooms, mops dust-pans, wastepaper baskets...

These are the implements our janitors used to keep the school in a clean and desirable state for learning. After everyone had gone home, these men still labored on, preparing the building once more to become a house of learning. Through their constant efforts they presented the halls to the student body with an immaculate and inviting face.

Practitioners of patience and determination, the bus drivers carried the rural members of the student body to and from the school. These dedicated individuals safely transported their precious cargo through blinding rain, smoldering heat, and freezing cold so that they might gain an education. We sincerely thank the bus drivers for their dedication and tireless service.

Activities

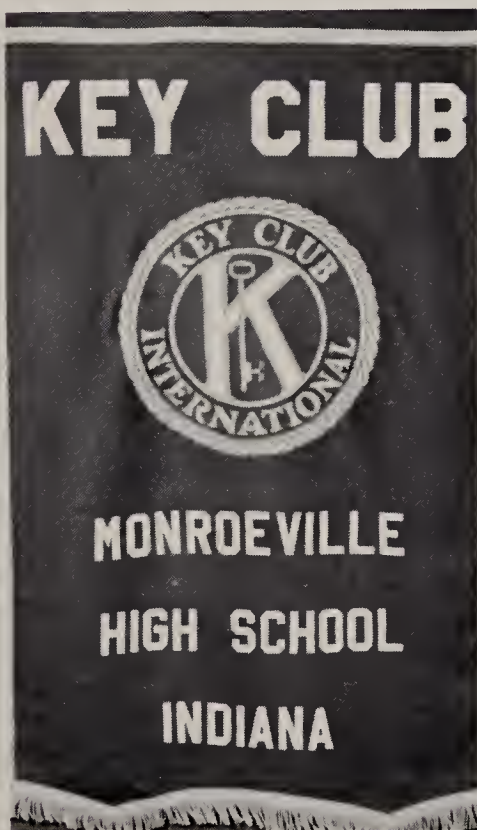

Planning a dance, doing research on Lord Byron, piling newspapers on a truck... A bake sale is given... Joint band rehearsal, forgetting your music, painting ducks for Christmas presents... A banquet is planned.

Coping with first graders all day, singing a song for the thousandth time... An impromptu meeting is called... Nervousness before a concert, shouting encouragement to the team, success-failure...

You're covered with ink from using the mimeograph... planning an induction, helping the community, baking countless cookies... The choir concert is a success.

Meeting a deadline, finishing a term paper, satisfaction-enjoyment... All of these things, commonplace but important, combine to form the spirit of co-operation.

SCHOLARSHIP

SERVICE

These are the requirements for becoming a member of the National Honor Society. Under the guidance of Mrs. Somers and Mr. Knape, the organization has tried to emphasize these virtues and encourage younger students to strive for excellence.

If, at the end of at least two years of high school, a student has maintained a B average and met the requirements of leadership, character, and service, he becomes a member of the organization. This was done at an induction ceremony with proud parents and teachers present. Activities highlighting the chapter's final year included a cleanup campaign and a bake sale.

Serving The Community Is The Aim Of Key Club

The Key Club is under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club of Fort Wayne. It is a service club open to all boys of high school age.

In its second year, this active club performed many services for the school, as well as for the community. Due to the effort of Mr. Snyder and the club members, several informative programs and speakers were presented. Among these were a program about the dangers of narcotics and another giving valuable information about cancer.

OFFICERS: Steve Cagnet, treasurer; Tim Somers, secretary; Donny Carpenter, president; Denny Grabner, vice-president; Jim Trentadue, sergeant-at-arms.

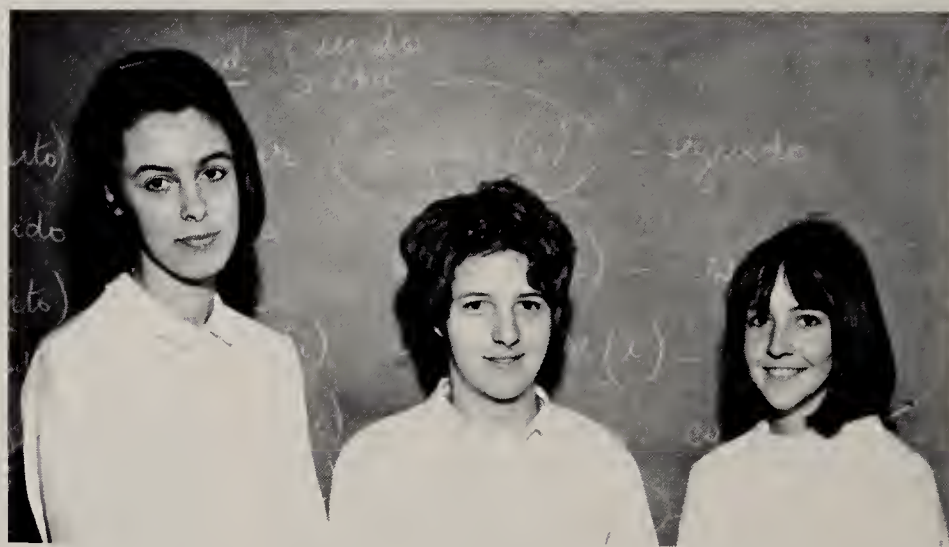

Ole Espanol!

Miss Toledo, Spanish teacher, is the sponsor for this club with a foreign flavor. During the year, club members learned more about the Spanish people and culture, as well as enjoying many activities.

Among these activities were a dance, a successful bake sale, and a Spanish Christmas party. In addition many of the members journeyed to Indiana University for a tour of the extensive language laboratory there.

FTA Looks To The Future

The profession of teaching was explored by the members of the Future Teachers of America. With the excellent cooperation of the faculty, FTA'ers gained valuable classroom experience and insight into the many problems and rewards of this vital profession. At the end of the year, Senior members were honored at a banquet held at the Gerber Haus in Fort Wayne.

Guidance and helpful advice were given by the club's sponsors, Mrs. Fritzinger and Miss Wetter.

Sports-minded girls were by no means forgotten at MHS. The Girls' Athletic Association, a very active club with an emphasis on sports, served their interests well. The GAA was ably sponsored by Mrs. Tyas.

The club's many activities included volleyball, tumbling, and jumping on the trampoline. The year's activities were culminated at a banquet held in the spring.

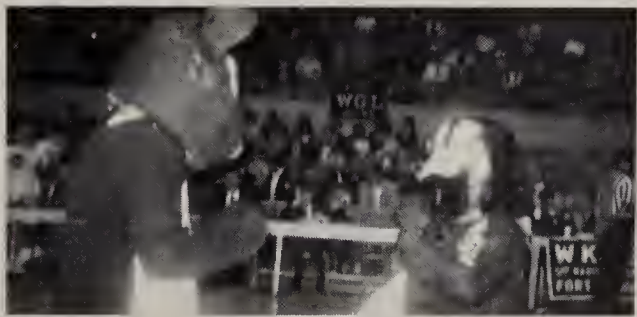

Pep Club Voices The Spirit Of Victory

Exuberant cheers rang out and filled the gymnasium as the Pep Club shouted encouragement to their favorite team. The members united to reach their goal of sportsmanship and victory.

Besides cheering for the team at regular season games, the Pep Club was especially active at County Tournament time. Flowers were purchased for each member and the organization gave their full support to the Cubs.

On April 20, the Pep Club sponsored the final Cheer Leader Feet Beeter. At Monroeville cheerleaders were honored.

Viking Staff Mirrors Life At MHS

Under the supervision of Mrs. Overmeyer, the Yearbook Staff endeavored to give an accurate picture of life at MHS during the past year. They tried to place equal emphasis on all facets of our school today, as well as reviewing its history.

Meeting deadlines and losing pictures caused some hectic moments, but, all in all, producing a yearbook was a rewarding experience for everyone concerned.

Librarians Aid In Book Selection And Research

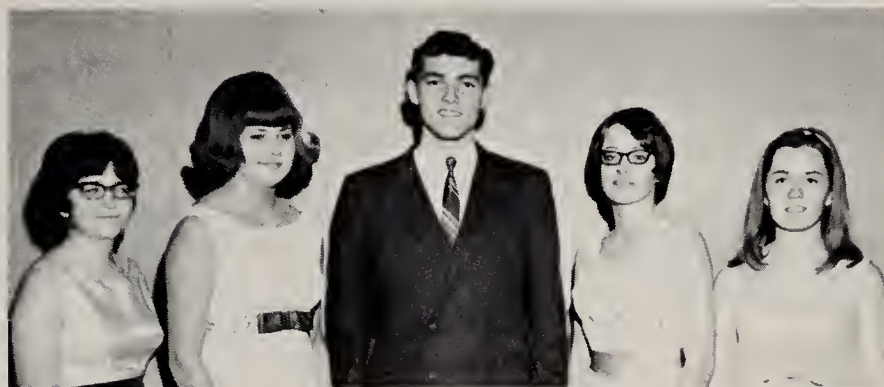

Research papers, reports, and book reports are an integral part of every high school student's life. Since the library is the best source of information, the librarians perform a great service to the school. Under the direction of Mrs. Grace, they aid students in using the card catalog and in finding the proper information for their writings.

Choir Combines Melody And Enthusiasm

Under the direction of Mr. Mergenthal, the 86 choir members combined musical ability, hard work, and enthusiasm to form a fine choral group. The choir was open to all high-school students who were willing to work hard and to attend practices.

The school year was highlighted by many different events. The choir's first performance was really three performances. They started the day at Saint Joseph Grade School in Monroeville, then went to the Johnny Appleseed School and finally to the Fort Wayne State Hospital. Other programs included a joint concert with Hoagland for Thanksgiving, a Christmas program, and a performance at the state contest. The year was ended with a spring concert, at which awards were presented.

Instrumentalists Harmonize At MHS

OFFICERS: Cindy Hamilton, Ron Whittern, Mary Beth Harless.

Under the direction of Mr. Tussing, the band had an active, enjoyable year. It was open to any hard-working high school student and to some junior high students. Combining ability and enthusiasm, the band members produced a fine musical organization.

Besides playing at all home basketball games, the band marched at the Decatur Halloween parade, and played for the Christmas and Spring Concerts. Along with the choir, they participated in the state band and choir contest at Caston School.

With the help of Coach Snyder each trackman set a goal for himself in a particular event and worked toward that goal. Individual effort characterized the team, with some fine performances from some of its members ranging from seniors to freshmen. Coach Snyder helped each member in his individual event, offering encouraging words, and putting criticism wherever it was appropriate.

Despite the lack of experience and size, a meaningful season of girls volleyball was played at M. H. S. Team play and hustle were stressed as Mrs. Tyus sought to instill in each girl the essentials of sportsmanship, individual effort, and fair play. While seniors grasped memories of past season, underclassmen looked forward to further years of competition.

Varsity Displayed Determination On The Gridiron In The First Year Of Competition

In their first full year of varsity competition, each player displayed a firm desire to perform on a competitive level with other, more established, teams on their schedule. Through diligent practice and exhausting skill sessions, the team members became accustomed to the confusing and precise terms of their attack, and sought to put them into effect. Sportsmanship and team play characterized Coach Billy William's team as he guided them through a rewarding first season.

Cubs Recorded Sucessful Season

In its final campaign, Monroeville High School posted the most successful season it had ever recorded! The Cubs, characterized by superlative pitching, excellent fielding, and fine hitting, exhibited pride, determination, and teamwork in its drive to an undefeated summer season, an A. C. A. C. championship, and the premier sectional victory in school history.

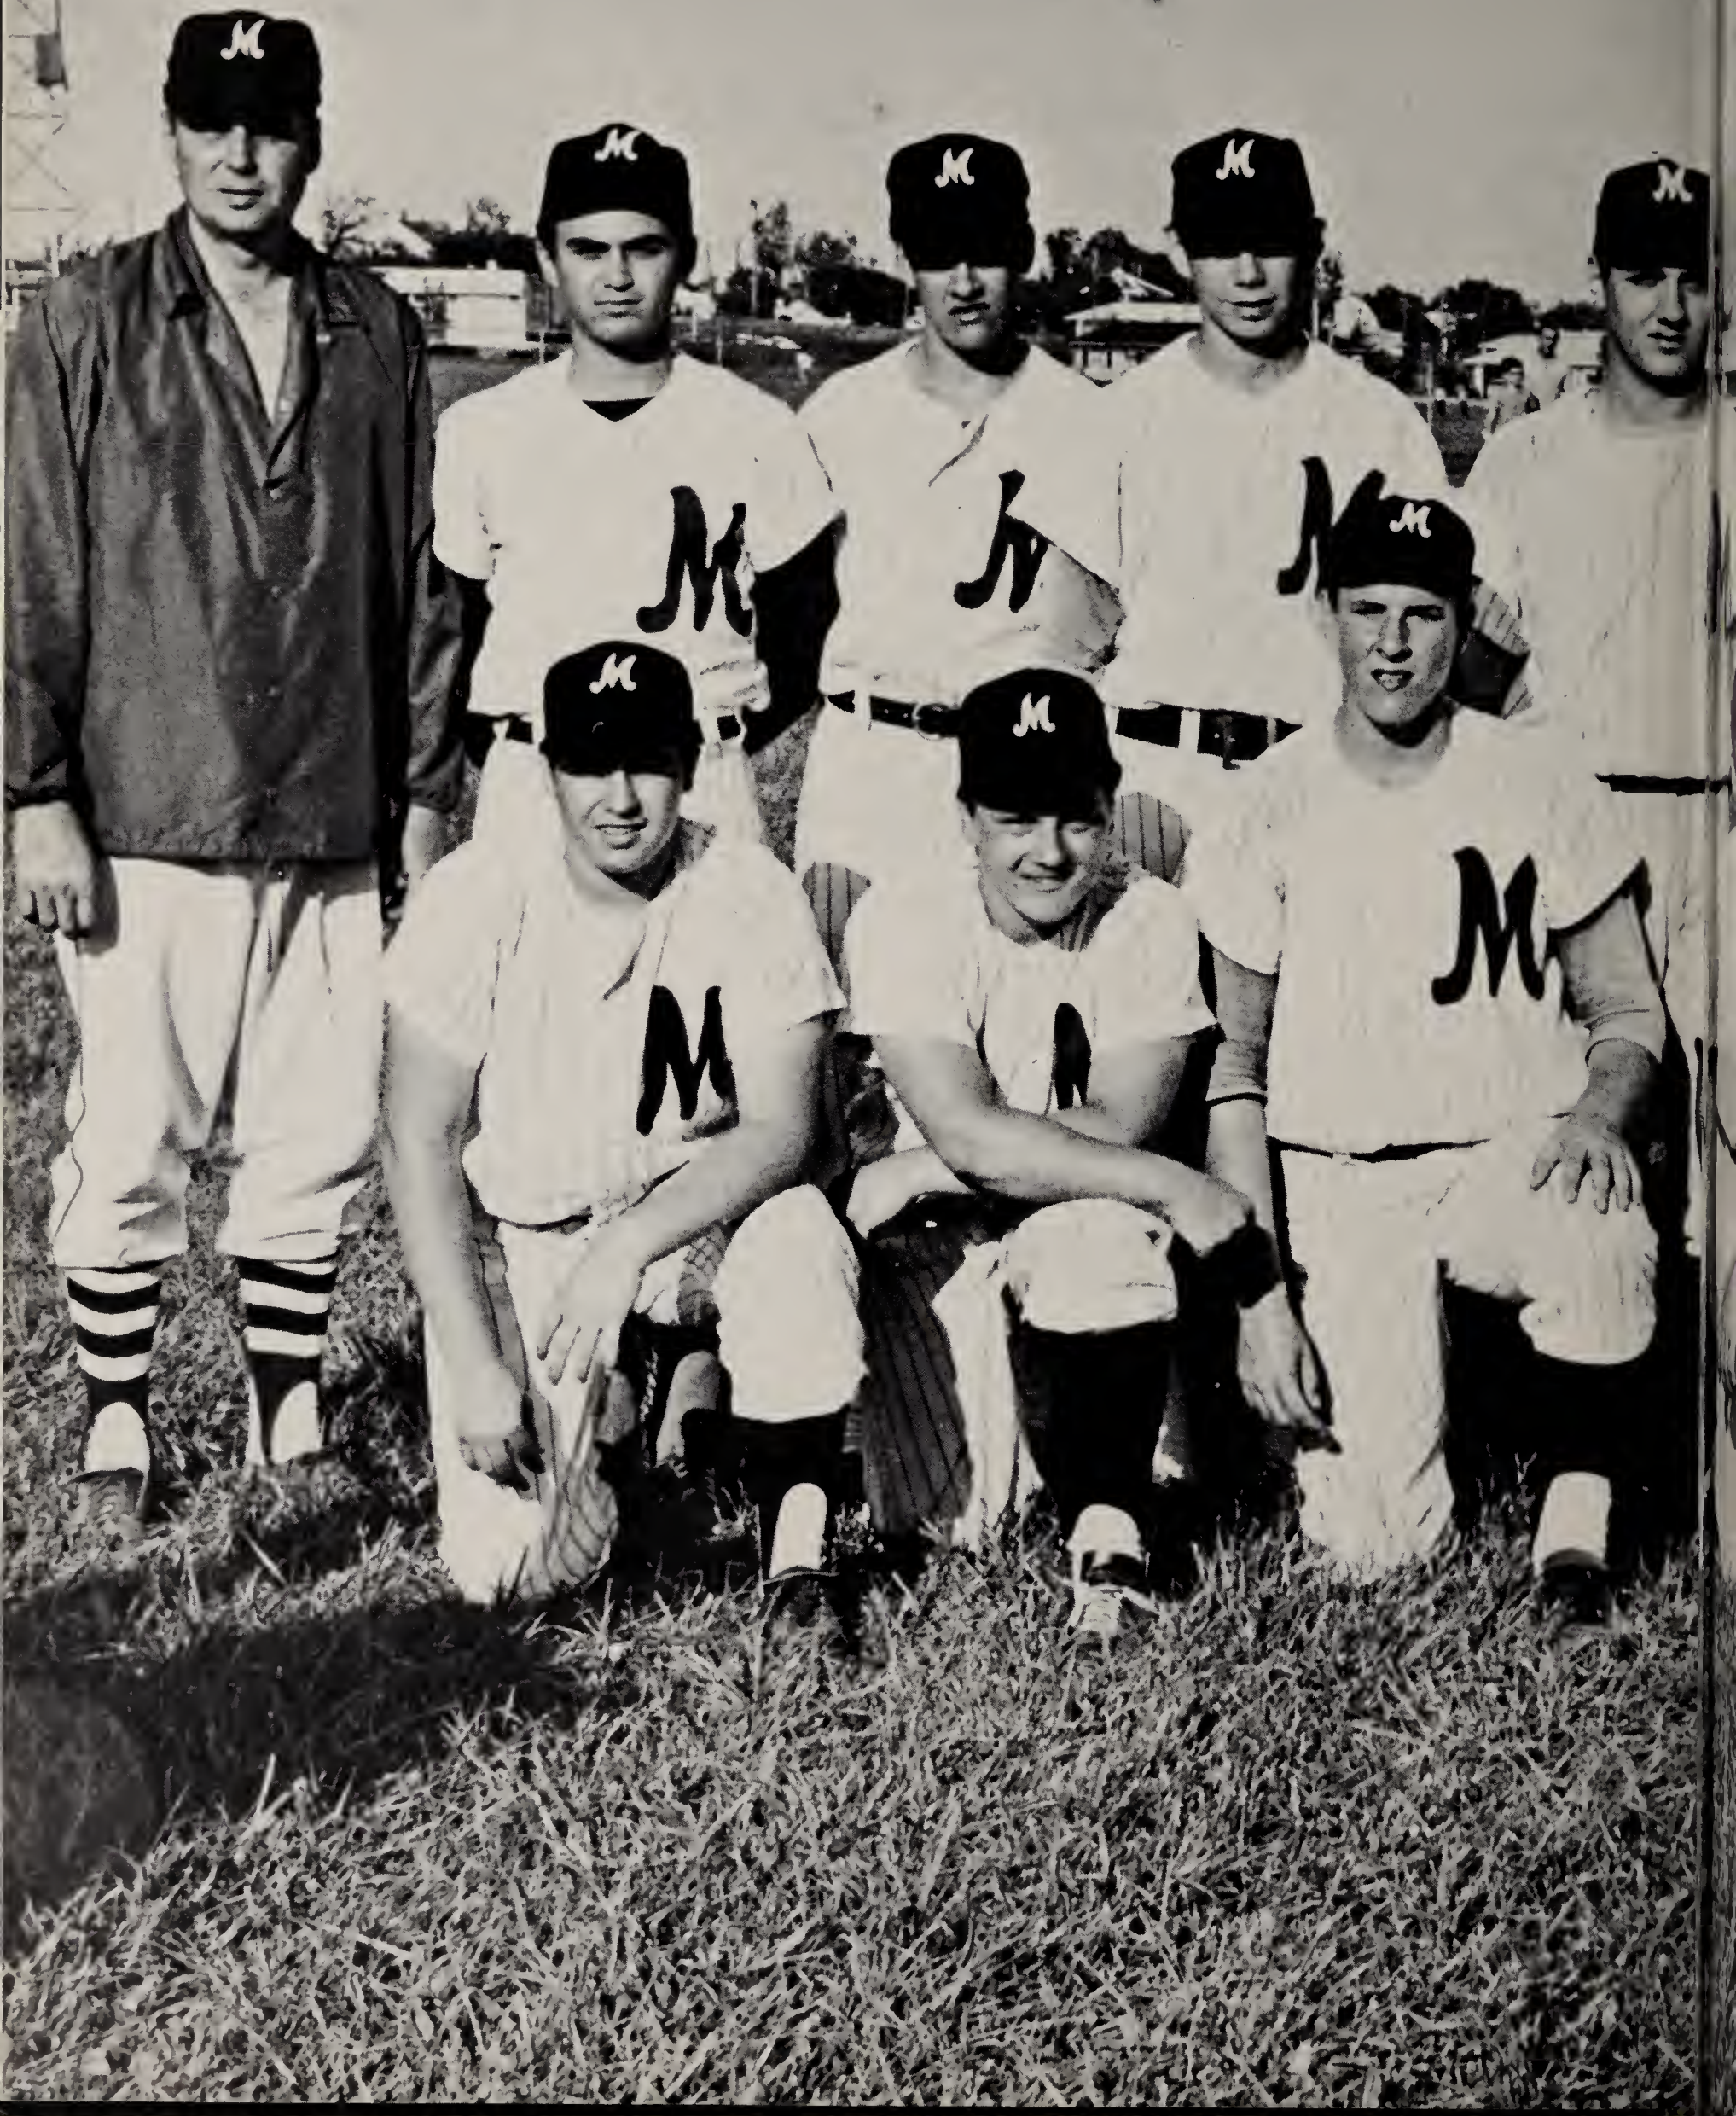

Coach Ned Knape's Cubs, through their fine showing, allowed MHS to leave the sports scene in one last blaze of glory and gave each team member an experience he will never forget.

Cubs' Final Efforts

Coach Knappe discusses strategy with team.

Coaches greet runner after a home run performance.

Weary players walk to the bench.

Cubs Post Undefeated

The Cubs head for the showers after another win.

An intense bench awaits their turn at bat.

A runner heads for first base as opponent makes the catch.

K. Sipe makes the run as R. Goelz prepares to bat.

Batter waits on deck as team-mate tries for a run.

Weary but victorious, the Cubs leave the field.

1967 Summer Season

Mr. Martin presents Coach Knape with the ACAC summer baseball trophy for an undefeated season.

The batter awaits a pitch from an Adams Central foe.

The Cubs rest before another triumphant summer game.

Varsity basketball was brought to a fitting close at MHS with a fine season by the Cubs. Overcoming the inexperience of the previous season, the team displayed the assurance and determination needed to win. Their efforts were rewarded by a 13 wins, 9 losses season and a great deal of satisfaction.

In his first year as head coach, Mr. Knape had the team to the semi-finals in both the county tournament and the sectional. There were some disappointments, but the Cubs can look back on the season with pride and a sense of accomplishment.

In spite of serious accident, D. Carpenter was able to receive an honored letter jacket.

Manager's World Revolved Around Uniforms And Statistics

The job of keeping order in the athletic department went to the five student managers. They spent long hours preparing the gym for basketball games and keeping track of uniforms and equipment.

As trainer, Gene Crabill treated minor injuries and kept the team in good physical condition. Keeping the public informed about the Cub's progress was also among their responsibilities.

Cheerleaders Took Charge Of Team Support

Julie Beauchot, Kathy Johnston, Elizabeth Orrick

Involvement in sports at MHS included everyone, not just the athletes themselves. Keeping the student body interested and active in support of the team was the responsibility of the cheerleaders. Besides leading the pep block in cries of victory during basketball games, the girls organized the Pep Club, made countless signs, and did their best to keep loyal spirits high at MHS.

People

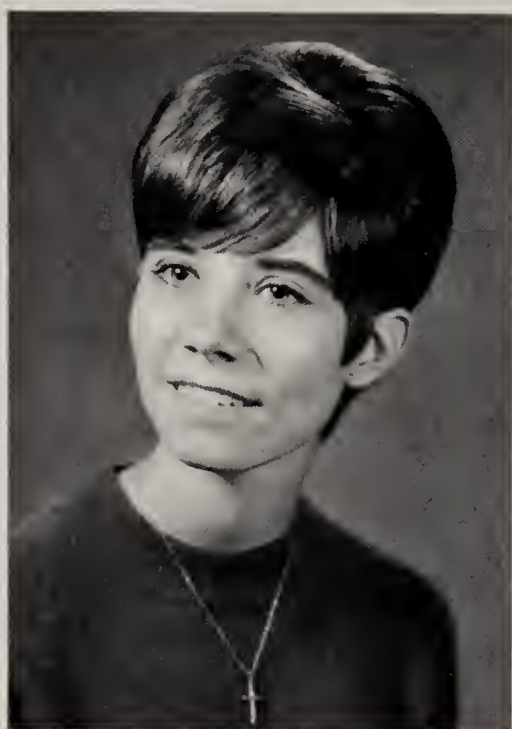

Whispering in class, listening to a joke... Everyone surges into the halls between classes... helping a confused Freshman find the Biology lab, the tense atmosphere of final exams, a quick conversation by the drinking fountain... A new student enters school... lending a sympathetic ear to a friend, making a stranger feel at ease... A new insight into human nature is gained...

Planning a surprise party, the latest fad, cramming for a test... A new friendship is formed... having a coke after school, sharing a secret... The kindergarten has a Halloween party... understanding-bewilderment, confidence, friendship, grief, joy... all of these reflect the spirit of humanity.

The Minds Of The Seniors

Four years ago, the Senior class entered MHS as timid Freshmen. As they walked into study hall on that first day of school they were experiencing a variety of emotions. At first, high school seemed to be mass confusion. Everything was constant rush, rush, rush and they felt that they could never get into the swing of things. As they took their places at the end of the study hall, the Senior section seemed far, far away.

But time passed quickly, and soon the timid Freshmen became Sophomores, then Juniors. Each new year brought with it new experiences and responsibilities. Although they didn't realize it at the time, each experience played a part in every student's education. Each success, each failure somehow added to their knowledge and human understanding.

Then, they were Seniors. The joys, the grief, the frustrations, and the satisfactions of high school were coming to an end. In a way, the Seniors were like Freshmen again; they were confused by a new mixture of feelings. There was a reluctance to leave the old, familiar ways and to plunge into the unknown. Yet there was a definite eagerness to discard the familiar and to strike out in search of a new, hopefully better way of life. That search has begun now, and, thanks to their years at MHS, the Seniors will have no trouble finding their way.

An Era Of Achievement

Comes To An End

The history of education at Monroeville is similar to that of many other small towns in this area. The frame building pictured on the preceding page was the first high school in Monroeville, and it housed students until the completion of the present building in 1916. The land was purchased in the fall of 1871 by school trustees, A. Engle, James Weiler, and T. S. Heller. The lot on the corner of Elm and Monroe Streets measured 125' x 260'. On it was built the first public school, a 31' x 71' building containing 4 classrooms, 1 waiting room, 1 room for the Trustees, and the Principal's office. The total cost of the building came to $7,175.00.

School years were short in those days; the first term ran from January 8, 1872 until March 29, 1872. W. A. Dickey was the first principal and his faculty consisted of M. S. Lahew, A. Grammar, O. C. Wolf, B. Grammar; Mollie E. Krouse, Intermediate; and Hattie Simpson, Primary. Dickey was Principal until 1873 when M. E. Crawford took over. Between 1874 and 1880, three men, L. H. Dillman, I. O. Jones, and O. Z. Hubbell, held that important position.

The first student-made journal of life at M. H. S. was published in 1911. Titled the Echo, the small yearbook contained essentially the same features as its descendants. Among the pictures in this annual was this likeness of Miss Mary Funican. She holds the distinction of being the only woman to hold the office of principal. In this capacity she guided the student body for several years.

Miss Mary Funican, Principal.

The laboratory of 1911 was much different from the science lab of today. Over the years Monroeville High School kept pace with the constantly increasing emphasis on science through the enlargement of facilities.

Alumni Banquet, Friday Evening, May 12.

Commencement ceremonies a half-century ago parallel closely with those of recent years. The program presented by the graduating class in 1911 held much of the enthusiasm, anxiety and human emotion which is evident in today's proceedings.

To every student of MHS, the study hall meant fun, friendship, and occasionally even study.

This GAA club was active in 1946. How many of these alumni can you name?

Throughout the years, school annuals have gone by several names, among them the Echo, the Cub, and finally the Viking. Here is a picture of the 1958 Viking staff hard at work.

Sports have always played an important part in the life at Monroeville High. Regardless of the team's standing, it has always received enthusiastic support from the school and the town. The 1948 squad, however, gave all of us a special reason to be proud. Under the leadership of Coach Milner, the team won not only the County Tourney, but the Sectional and Regional Titles as well.

MHS Created An Undying Spirit

The school as it appeared in 1931.

It would require an entire book to present a factual and clear history of Monroeville High School. The editors hope that in these few pages a brief and worthwhile glimpse of the life at M. H. S. since its beginning has been given.

Monroeville High School does not cease to exist with this last publication, nor does she die when high school students no longer enter and exit her doors daily. She lives on in the hearts, thoughts, and memories of each person who has ever entered her doors, sat in her classrooms, or received a diploma on her stage.

AN END AND A BEGINNING

The yearbook staff of the 1968 Viking was somewhat luckier than most of its predecessors. Chosen in the latter part of our Junior year, we had some extra time to think about what we wanted to accomplish with the yearbook before the actual work began. We came to realize that we had a double responsibility to the school and the community.

The most obvious task was to record the events of the 1967-1968 school year at Monroeville High School. Countless activities of all kinds sometimes made our job pretty confusing, but we hope that this book presents a well-rounded picture of life at our school.

Our second, and perhaps more important, responsibility was to publish a memorial to a high school that is no longer in operation. In this, the final yearbook of Monroeville High, we felt it necessary and appropriate to pay tribute to those who made up its history. The 1968 Viking is not especially for the graduating Seniors, but for each of the 72 classes that received diplomas from MHS. We have tried, in a brief space, to review some of the events and people that gave the school its unique personality. If, by reading this book, you find yourself reminiscing about your own high school days, then we have indeed achieved our purpose.

We would like to take this opportunity to give our special thanks to Mrs. Overmeyer, the yearbook sponsor. Without her guidance and assistance, there very possibly may never have been a Viking. Giving us the benefit of her experience and leadership, she worked long hours to assure the success of this book. We owe her a great debt of gratitude for her tireless patience and enthusiasm.

In bidding farewell to MHS, we wish the best of luck to those going to Heritage in September. You are about to embark on an exciting, hopefully successful journey into a new school. We urge everyone to do his very best to make Heritage the finest school anywhere. But we also hope that you won't entirely forget the lessons you have learned, the fun you have had, and the experience you have gained during your years at Monroeville High School.
